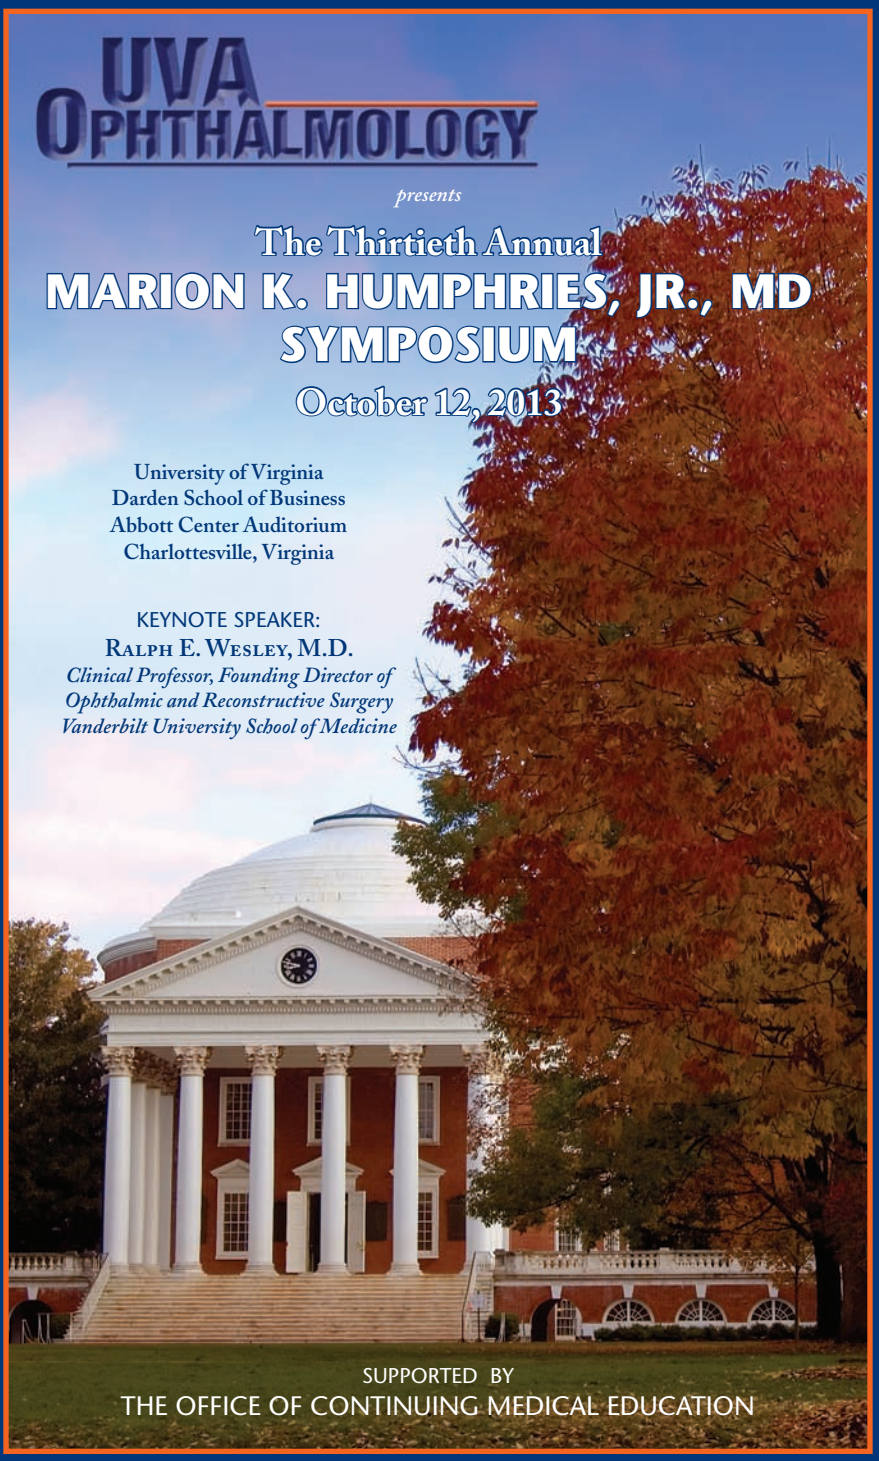
The Thirtieth Annual
MARION K. HUMPHRIES, JR., MD SYMPOSIUM

October 12, 2013

University of Virginia
Darden School of Business
Abbott Center Auditorium
Charlottesville, Virginia

KEYNOTE SPEAKER:
Ralph E. Wesley, M.D.
Clinical Professor, Founding Director of Ophthalmic and Reconstructive Surgery
Vanderbilt University School of Medicine



SUPPORTED BY
THE OFFICE OF CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION

CONFERENCE OVERVIEW

The Humphries Symposium is dedicated to providing the clinical ophthalmologist with opportunities to increase knowledge and competence related to the most up-to-date diagnostic and therapeutic interventions and to reflect on how this information might lead to changes in their daily practice. This year's Symposium focuses on the diagnosis and management of orbital pathology, specifically reconstructive and oculoplastic repair. Ralph E. Wesley, MD Clinical Professor and Founding Director of Ophthalmic Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine will provide lectures on ophthalmic facial and plastic reconstructive surgery. UVA Department of Ophthalmology Alumni and Faculty and other guest speakers will augment his presentations with additional information and present research updates from their respective specialties.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of the Symposium, participants will be able to:

- Discuss the evolving role of imaging studies in the diagnosis and treatment of orbital pathology;
- Identify thyroid orbitopathy and lesions in the patient presenting with exophthalmos;
- Distinguish when elevated intraocular pressure is not glaucoma;
- Describe new techniques in glaucoma treatment;
- Become familiar with DMEK, the treatment of choice, in the absence of endothelial cell rejuvenation;
- Recognize the immune system gone awry, diagnose and manage cancer associated retinopathy;
- Become familiar with intraocular inflammation, and when referral is indicated;
- Acknowledge envenomation and its unusual presentation to the ophthalmologist;
- List indications and contraindications for binocular intraocular surgery.
